

EUGENICS/TRANSHUMANISM

THE X CLUB

weaponisation of some of these ideologies by Hitler and his lunatic following. At the time Julian Huxley was running the British Eugenics Society.

As we will see, eugenics never went away and in fact the likes of Bill Gates, the Huxleys, Ted Turner, Winston Churchill, The Rothschilds, Rockefeller's and today's modern day poster boy for Transhumanism (eugenics) Elon Musk all carried this ideology aloft into the 21st century.

Charlie Robinson says that when the World Economic Forum use the term '4th Industrial Revolution' what they really mean is eugenics, or better yet transhumanism.

Thomas Huxley and The X Club

Thomas Henry Huxley was the grandfather of both Julian and Aldous Huxley so I guess you could say they at least live by their ideology of keeping this lunacy in the family.

He was an English Biologist and anthropologist who was a keen supporter and promoter of Charles Darwin, he was even given the nickname "Darwins Bulldog" due to his consistent promotion of Darwins theories, although it is believe his did not fully agree (or at least publicly express) with Darwins theory of natural selection. Perhaps this was because he knew that there is nothing natural about todays Transhumanism in our technocratic age and that one day he and his family would play a large role in the hybridisation of man and machine?

Charles Darwin of course is most famous for his theory of natural selection, or in other words survival of the fittest and eugenics. This theory sits hand in glove with the Big Bang Theory of a world that is purely an accident and that evolution is simply the product of natural selection. This theory however cannot answer any of the big questions about the clear intelligent design of our reality or who or what designed the atoms and particles that were released from the "Big Bang". These theory cannot also

Thomas Henry Huxley

What fascinated me most about the life of Thomas Henry Huxley was that in 1864 he launched The X Club. This club was an elite and exclusive club for himself and some of his like minded Royal Society friends. The aim of the group is vaguely described as being "to advance the cause of science".

The nine members of The X Club were as follows:

There were nine members, who decided at their first meeting that there should be no more. The members were: Huxley, John Tyndall, J. D. Hooker, John Lubbock (banker, biologist and neighbour of Darwin), Herbert Spencer (social philosopher and sub-editor of the Economist), William Spottiswoode (mathematician and the Queen's Printer), Thomas Hirst (Professor of Physics at University College London), Edward Frankland (the new Professor of Chemistry at the Royal Institution) and George Busk, zoologist and palaeontologist

Is why they sacrifice human beings to their creator Gods, one of which is Baal.

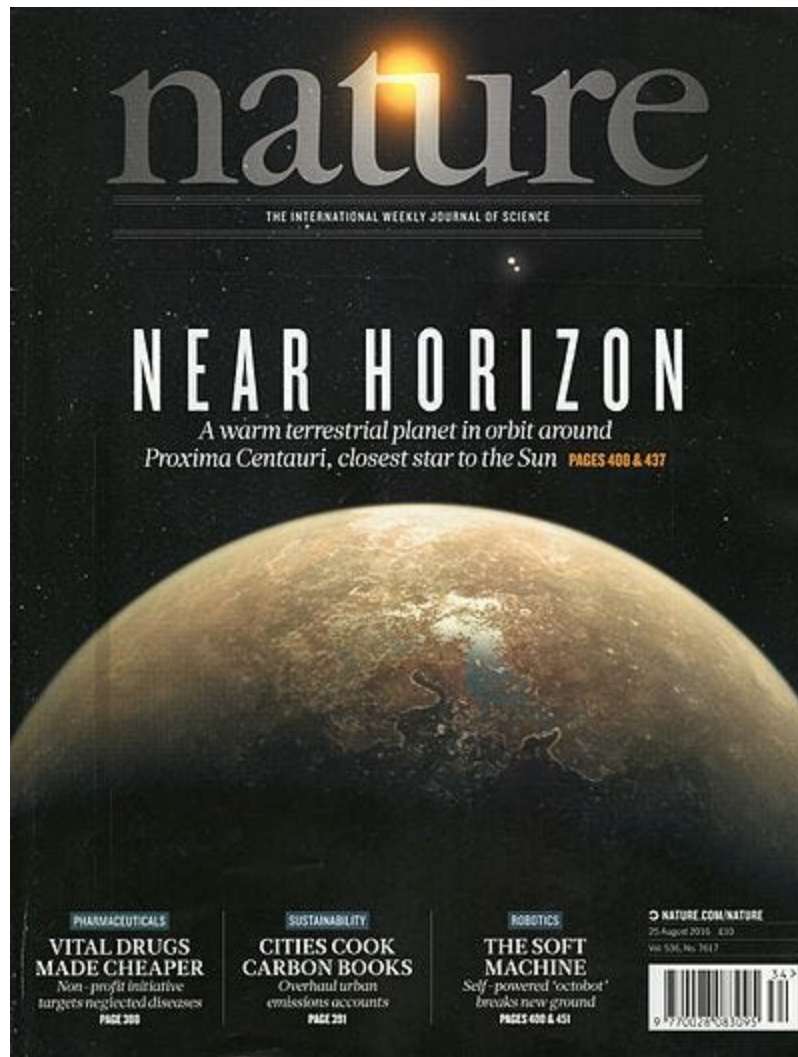

British Royal Crest at Balmoral signifies Baal

For more information on the fundamental importance of understanding Plasma and it's role in what some researchers believe to be the simulation we live in I highly recommend David Ickes latest book 'The Reveal'.

Regular visitors to the X Club included both Charles Darwin and Hermann von Helmholtz who was a German physicist and physician who took a particular interest in reviewed research from a variety of academic disciplines, mainly in science and technology”

Anyway I progress.....

My point is that The X Club created these publications so that they could nudge (Nudge Unit) the overtone window towards the materialistic Darwin mindset that everything in this reality can be quantified, measured and understood, and more to the point that there is no intelligence design to this crazy place. Today we have the doom mongering Richard Dawkins who lives in his own little materlistic world who promotes this same nonsense.

The X Club ran the Royal Society Council for the Royal bloodline Cult families and from 1873 to 1885 Hooker, Spottiswoode and Huxley were Presidents of the Royal Society in succession. The official narrative would have you believe that the X Club faded away after Hooker died in 1911 but I personally do not believe that to be the case.

There are a number of reasons why the poster boy for Transhumanism today Elon Musk is so obsessed with the letter X. I believe that one of these reasons is that the X Club and everything that they stood for is still alive and kicking today, and that Elon is the poster boy for the club today.

The X Club and Musk

As Charlie Robinson of the Macroaggressions Podcast point out, it was the grand son of Thomas Huxley, Julian Huxley who was responsible for rebranding Eugenics as Transhumanism.

notion in the United States District Court of the Northern District of California, it was revealed that this umbrella corporation have 95 hidden shareholders. In March of 2023 this parent company of Musks X Corp was registered with a capital of $2 Million.
